Board Audit No Discredit To Jaeger

Move No Political Damage Effort, Gov. Dalton Says

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — A new audit of state park board funds is not intended to damage the political future of Joseph Jaeger Jr., Gov. John M. Dalton said Sunday.

Jaeger resigned as park board director last December to seek the Democratic nomination for secretary of state, opposing James C. Kirkpatrick, Windsor newspaper publisher.

In a television interview Sunday, Dalton said Kirkpatrick was his good friend and he thought Jaeger was also until differences arose over appointment of Jaeger's successor as park director.

The governor said the final selection last week of Clarence E. Wyatt of Poplar Bluff as park director was made by the park board after the list of applicants was cut to three. The other two were from Sikeston and New Madrid. Dalton said he told the board all three were acceptable to him and he would take no part in the final choice.

Concerning the appointment last week of his former law partner, Harold B. Treasure of Kennett, as state highway commission chairman, Dalton gave this explanation:

He felt a chairman from St. Louis would be too interested in metropolitan area highways, while an outstate man would realize the problems of both urban and rural areas.

There have been rumors that Dalton might become secretary of commerce if President Johnson is re-elected. Asked about the reports, Dalton said:

"I want to stay in Missouri. I have not asked for any job and I have not been asked to take any job."

Detailed Report On Assassination By Month's End

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Warren Commission's report on President John F. Kennedy's assassination is expected to substantiate the original FBI finding that Lee Harvey Oswald, acting alone, murdered Kennedy.

The commission has completed its basic work and set the end of the month as the target date for a report expected to detail the evidence that Oswald was the assassin and acted alone.

The commission plans to call several more witnesses including Kennedy's widow, who will testify at a secret time and place. She was riding in the car with her husband when he was shot in Dallas last Nov. 22.

Ruby Sanity Hearing Is Recommended

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Three court-appointed psychiatrists recommended today that a sanity hearing be held for condemned killer Jack Ruby.

However, Judge Joe B. Brown said he wanted to confer with the psychiatrists before deciding whether to grant the hearing for Ruby, sentenced to be executed for slaying Lee Harvey Oswald, accused as the assassin of President John F. Kennedy.

The recommendation was made in a signed document by Dr. R. L. Stubblefield, Dr. John T. Holbrook, and Dr. William R. Beavers.

Brown told newsmen that the three had reported to him that Ruby is mentally ill. Brown said this did not necessarily mean Ruby was legally insane.

Defense attorney Joe Tonahill said an appeal to the Texas Supreme Court will be made if Brown does not order a sanity hearing.

A jury decided last March that Ruby, 33, former night club operator, knew right from wrong when he shot Oswald during a jail transfer Nov. 24 last year.

No Senate Voting This Week On Rights Measure

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana told the Senate today he hoped to file next Saturday a petition for limiting debate on the civil rights bill.

"One hour after we meet Tuesday, we would be prepared to vote on a cloture," he said.

Just a few minutes earlier, before conferring on the floor with Minority Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, Mansfield had told reporters he hoped to do this next Monday.

He announced his new intention after conversations with Dirksen on the floor and in response to a question from Dirksen when he intended to file the petition.

Mansfield referred to a petition for cloture, or debate limitation, which must be signed by at least 16 senators, and then voted upon within two days.

To be effective, the move must win support of two-thirds of the Senate, or 67 if all are present and voting.

Each senator then would be limited to one hour's debate on the bill and all amendments with more than 200 now pending.

Mansfield said he expects no Senate voting this week on the bill although lengthy sessions are planned to explain the package of amendments introduced last week as a substitute for the House-passed bill.

Earlier, spokesmen for opposing camps in the long battle over civil rights agreed that the measure had been "watered down" by the package of amendments.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., an ardent civil rights advocate, said "There is no question that the bill has been somewhat watered down" but added that it also had been strengthened in some respects.

Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala., one of the Southern opponents, said "There may be some watering down effect in these amendments, but even with them it is a bad bill and we Southern senators are against the bill in its entirety and still hope to kill it in its entirety."

The comments came as the Senate began its fourth month, 13th week and 67th session on consideration of the anti-discrimination measure passed by the House early in March.

Javits and Sparkman spoke out in programs recorded for radio and television use in their home states.

Dr. Jacob K. Javits Quits Southwest State Post

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — The resignation of Dr. Leland E. Traywick as president of Southwest Missouri State College was announced today by the school's Board of Regents.

Kenneth E. Postlethwaite, Nevada, president of the Board, said the resignation "was occasioned by a divergence of views between the Board and Dr. Traywick regarding administrative and policy matters generally."

The resignation of Dr. Traywick, who took over the post Sept. 1, 1961, is effective June 30.

Postlethwaite said the Board did not name an acting president and would not name one if a new president is selected by June 30.

In Atmosphere of Crisis

Open Talks On Asia

HONOLULU (AP)—Top U.S. strategists opened secret talks on Communist-plagued Southeast Asia today as the shaky coalition government of Laos appeared to be falling apart.

The virtual pullout of the pro-Communist Pathet Lao from a patched-up coalition with Laoian nationalists and rightists deepened the crisis atmosphere surrounding the talks.

Just about every key American official concerned with Southeast Asia was present for the two-day conference behind closed doors at Pacific Command headquarters overlooking Pearl Harbor.

Youths Instill Terror On NY Subways

NEW YORK (AP)—Bands of teen- aged Negro marauders, raiding subway trains and a ferry boat, brought terror to normally quiet sections of Brooklyn and lower Manhattan over the weekend.

Early Sunday 20 youths stormed aboard a subway train en route from Coney Island in Brooklyn and terrorized and robbed passengers.

The youths, many of them reeking with alcohol, left the train at Kings Highway, Brooklyn, after smashing windows and light bulbs.

They ran to the street, smashed the window of a beauty parlor and stole about $90 from the cash register.

Residents of the district, which is predominantly white, reacted with anger and a street clash was narrowly averted.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge flew in from Saigon Sunday and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara arrived from Washington twelve hours later.

McNamara called the meeting "particularly timely" in view of increases in tempo and intensity of communist aggression in Southeast Asia.

He charged that Communist North Viet Nam is directing attacks in both Laos and South Viet Nam.

Lodge declared the situation in South Viet Nam is certainly not hopeless.

The officials arranged to begin a day-long session early this morning.

The final decision maker—President Johnson—waited in Washington for recommendations that could lead to military pressures against Communist North Viet Nam, source of much of the trouble in Laos and South Viet Nam.

City health officials said the epidemic appeared to have sprung from a supermarket meat slicer. But a Town Council meeting heard a suggestion that it may have been attributable to what one official called a deterioration of hygiene in the city's public lavatories because of the recent withdrawal of attendants. Health officials said they would investigate.

Fears the outbreak had spread to the British navy were quieted.

A cook and seaman from the submarine Rorqual were hospitalized in Glasgow as typhoid suspects but the navy reported the two sailors were suffering from gastroenteritis, an intestinal inflammation.

Schools have closed and social life is suspended in Aberdeen. One woman has died of typhoid thus far.

Court Strikes Down Alabama NAACP Bar

Decree Assures Rights Of Group to Function

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court struck down today an Alabama court order barring the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People from operating in that state.

Justice John M. Harlan delivered the unanimous decision.

In litigation that began in 1956, the Montgomery County (Ala.) Circuit Court on Dec. 29, 1961 permanently enjoined NAACP from conducting interstate business in the state. The ban was on the ground the NAACP had failed to register as a foreign-out-of-state corporation.

Alabama's Supreme Court on Feb. 28, 1963 affirmed the Circuit Court order, without considering the merits of the case. The State Supreme Court said this was necessary because the NAACP had failed to satisfy rules as to the manner in which law briefs should raise assignments of error.

The NAACP appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court, contending it had been deprived of constitutional freedom of association, and due process and equal protection of law.

The state in reply said the NAACP had been given full opportunity to be heard in Alabama courts and now presented nothing of a federal nature for action by the U.S. Supreme Court.

In upholding the NAACP contentions, Harlan said, "The judgment below must be reversed."

He noted that, in view of the long history of the case, the Supreme Court had been asked to formulate a decree for entry in the Alabama courts to assure the NAACP's right to conduct activities in Alabama without further delay.

Florida Bible Rule Overturned by The US Supreme Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court overturned today a Florida court decision that upheld Bible reading and recitation of the Lord's Prayer in Miami public schools.

The tribunal cited its 1963 decision in a similar case from Abington Township in Pennsylvania.

In the Abington case, and also in a case from Maryland, the Supreme Court, last year, held that required Bible reading and prayer exercises are unconstitutional.

Memorial Road Toll New High

More Than 400 Die In Traffic In 78-hour Period

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Traffic accidents killed 429 persons throughout the nation during the 78-hour weekend of Memorial Day.

The deaths occurred between 6 p.m. Thursday and midnight Sunday, local times.

The weekend toll was only slightly more than an actual nonholiday weekend tally in mid-May this year. It was within the bracket of the National Safety Council's estimate of 410 to 490 traffic deaths.

Nevertheless, the fatal record was a high for a three-day Memorial Day period. The previous record was 371 in 1958. Probably, safety experts said, a great increase in the number of cars in use, and in miles traveled, accounted for last weekend's total.

The heaviest toll was Sunday as millions of motorists jammed highways headed for home after outings. Reports indicate nearly 150 persons were killed in traffic accidents in the final 24 hours of the holiday period.

Traffic fatalities during the holiday period compared to 418 traffic deaths during a nonholiday weekend of 78 hours, from 6 p.m. Thursday, May 14 to midnight Sunday, May 17. The Associated Press survey for the nonholiday period also showed 23 deaths in boating accidents and 73 persons drowned, a total of 514. Boating deaths during the holiday period totaled 18 while 41 persons drowned.

The record high traffic death toll for any Memorial Day holiday period was 462 in a four-day observance in 1961. Last Memorial Day was a one-day observance and there were 159 deaths on the highways.

14 Are Killed In Missouri On Weekend

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fourteen persons died in Missouri traffic accidents during the Memorial Day weekend.

Mrs. Florence Loraine Cooksey, 45, Ft. Smith, Ark., died in a Carthage hospital Sunday of injuries suffered in a two-car accident Saturday afternoon near Jasper, Mo. Five other persons were injured.

Edgar Crum, 62, of Liberal, Mo., was fatally injured Saturday in a car-truck collision five miles west of Jasper. He died in a Pittsburg, Kan., hospital late Saturday night. His wife and granddaughter were injured.

A two-car collision in St. Louis County Saturday killed Robert Bartlett, 47, of Lemay in suburban St. Louis. Three other persons were injured, two seriously.

The collision of a car and a taxi on U. S. 40 at the east edge of Kansas City Saturday night killed 6-months-old Connie Martin. Nine other persons were injured including the child's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Martin of Kansas City.

William Vassar, 28, of Hamilton, Mo., burned to death in his car after it was sideswiped by a tractor-trailer and caught fire on U. S. 36 near Cameron.

Eight persons died in traffic accidents Friday; one Thursday night.

Loyalty Oath For Workers Struck Down

Supreme Court Says Washington Laws 'Are Too Vague'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court struck down today two Washington state laws requiring that all state employees take loyalty oaths.

Justice Byron R. White, delivering the court's decision, said the laws were "unconstitutionally vague."

Justice Tom C. Clark wrote a dissenting opinion, in which Justice John M. Harlan joined. The court's vote thus was 7-2.

About 64 persons employed by the University of Washington in teaching and nonteaching jobs had challenged validity of the state laws.

They appealed from a decision by a special three-judge U.S. District Court in Seattle, Wash., that upheld the state requirement.

One law, enacted in 1955, requires state employees to swear they are not subversive persons, as defined in the law. The other law, enacted in 1931, requires that another oath be taken by teachers.

White's majority opinion said the university employees contended before the Supreme Court that the oath requirements, and the statutory provisions on which they were based, were invalid on their face, because their language was unduly vague, uncertain and broad.

White stated: "We agree with this contention and therefore, without reaching the numerous other contentions pressed upon us, confine our consideration to that particular question."

Youth Nabbed In High Speed Chase Sunday

A 19-year-old youth from Route 1, La Monte, in an attempt to out-run a patrol car failed at Dresden where he was stopped by State Trooper Robert Bruce, Sunday night, after a chase which started on West Broadway here in Sedalia.

The youth, Robert Ray Stapley, 19, Route 1, La Monte, was returned to Sedalia and held overnight in the Pettis County Jail. Trooper R. W. Bruce issued him a summons for exceeding the speed limit by traveling 110 m.p.h. in a 65 m.p.h. zone and for passing on a hill.

Stapley was released Monday morning on $100 bond returnable June 17 when his case is scheduled for hearing in Magistrate Court before Judge Frank Armstrong.

According to Trooper Bruce, he was parked at Broadway and Limit when Stapley pulled up at the intersection and stopped for the traffic light. As Stapley started to drive off, he raced his car's motor causing it to backfire several times. Bruce said that he pulled out to "check him out" and when he turned on his patrol car's red light, the driver of the car "took off."

Bruce said he clocked Stapley at speeds of over 100 miles an hour, and was unable to catch him immediately because of heavy traffic. Bruce said Stapley passed another car on a hill during the chase. After Stapley was stopped Bruce quoted him as saying he thought it was the City police after him and didn't know it was the State Patrol.

Police Officer Al Blankenship said he had stopped Stapley earlier in the evening, while the officer was driving his private car, to warn Stapley on the manner in which he was driving. Blankenship lectured Stapley but did not file charges against him after Stapley promised he would drive the car properly.

Fires In City

A short in a fluorescent light resulted in a run by Sedalia firemen to the Thrifty Dress Shop, 120 South Ohio, at 3:02 p.m. Sunday. There was no damage.

Accidents

Traffic on Grand Avenue Road was tied up for more than an hour at Flat Creek bridge from about 10:15 to 11:30 p.m. Saturday night when a car skidded sideways and lodged on the bridge. No one was injured in the accident.

S/Sgt. Donald D. Risner, 28, Whiteman Air Force Base, driver of the car, told Trooper Pete Stohr, of the State Highway Patrol, his car skidded on the running boards of the bridge, went out of control and into a side skid. The rear end lodged against the rail on the west side and the front end against the rail and girder on the east side of the bridge.

At the time it had been raining and the bridge flooring was slippery.

Bacon's wrecker was able to pull one end back and released the car from the bridge railing. Considerable damage resulted to the front and rear end of the 1959 Impala Chevrolet. The railings on both sides of the bridge were bent.

Risner was headed north when the accident occurred.

Occupants of two automobiles escaped injury in a collision on south Highway 65 in front of the Fina Service Station about 1:50 p.m. Sunday afternoon. Damage to the vehicle was not extensive.

Involved were a 1956 Chevrolet driven by Donald E. Walker, 21, Ames, Ia., and a 1964 Chevrolet sedan, driven by James T. Eldridge, 27, Kansas City, Kan.

According to Trooper Robert Bruce, of the State Highway Patrol, both cars were headed north on Highway 65. Bruce reported Walker was passing a string of automobiles when Eldridge attempted to turn left into the Fina Station.

Bruce said Walker's car struck the left door on the Eldridge car, and knocked the Eldridge car back to the east and off of the highway. The car went through a fence along the east right-of-way of the highway.

A wrecker from the Bacon service station towed the Walker car to Sedalia, where minor repairs were made and Walker continued on. Eldridge's car was driveable and he continued on to his home in Kansas City, Kan.

Breakfast Date Set By Chamber For June 15

The first Chamber of Commerce Breakfast for 1964 will be held Monday, June 15, at 7 a.m. in the Sacred Heart Cafeteria, according to an announcement by the public relations division of which Elmer L. McClung is director and Ed Mitchell, general chairman.

The breakfast will be sponsored by the Franchised New Car Dealers of Sedalia; Bryant Motor Co., Mike O'Connor Chevrolet-Buick Co., Routsong Motor Co.; Thompson-Greer, Inc., T & G Motor Co., Queen City Motors, Cal Rodgers Motor Co., and Fitzwilliams Motor, Inc.

One hundred dollars has been donated by the Car Dealers for door prizes as follows: $50 will be given to members only, five $10 drawings, and winners must be in attendance. There will be ten drawings also of $5 each for anyone in attendance.

All new members who have joined the Chamber since the new year, starting March 1, will be recognized.

Tickets may be secured from the Chamber of Commerce office and reservations must be in by June 12.

Funeral Rites Set For Hax Steindel

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Funeral services will be held Thursday for Hax Steindel, principal cellist for the St. Louis Symphony for 30 years.

South Moniteau, charged with making a loud and unnecessary noise with a motor vehicle, forfeited a $10 bond.

Alvin Hughes, 309 East St. Louis, charged with disturbing the peace and assault with hands on complaint of Gladys Gray, pleaded innocent, but after a hearing was found guilty and fined $10.

Thomas E. Wilson, 423 North Mill, charged with carrying a concealed weapon (a .25 caliber automatic pistol, pleaded guilty and was fined $25.

Thomas E. Wilson, 423 North Mill, charged with disturbing the peace and assault with feet on complaint of Ollie Whitley, pleaded guilty and was fined $25.

The case of Lester Murray, Werner Trailer Court, charged with assault on complaint of Zola Murray, was continued to June 29.

Police Reports

Jill Ulmer, 1915 West Fifth, reported a green and white 24-inch bicycle stolen Sunday afternoon from near the 16th Street gate at the state fairgrounds. The bike was valued at $40.

Robert Geiser, 1222 East Sixth, told police Missouri motorcycle license number J-866 was stolen from his cycle Sunday afternoon while parked in front of his home.

The Interstate Baking Company at Third and Hancock was found burglarized Saturday afternoon.

Police reported entrance was gained by cutting and knocking a hole in the front door glass. Amount of the loss was not revealed, but police indicated the thief made off with change from a soda pop machine, and some change and currency hidden in a container behind the counter.

W. E. Blasler, 520 South Summit, discovered the broken door and reported it to police.

W. T. Read, of the Welcome Inn, told police Sunday that a chihuahua dog reported stolen from him had been returned. The dog was reported taken on May 23.

Circuit Court

A Pettis County farmer who claims blasting in connection with the laying of underground cable on the Minuteman missile project interrupted the flow of a living spring on his farm named a new defendant in a petition filed Monday in Circuit Court and requested an earlier petition be dismissed.

Zeb Thomas and Peggy Lee Thomas named as defendants System Constructors, Inc., with offices at 1201 South Ohio in the action filed Monday. They ask damages of $5,000.

The ITT Kellogg Company had been named as defendant in a petition filed in January. The Thomases are represented by George H. Miller.

A damage petition judgment of $45,000 is sought in a petition filed Monday in Circuit Court by Murrel P. Ford, Springfield, against Marilyn S. Gooding, Sedalia.

The plaintiff claims she was injured Feb. 26, 1964 on Highway 50 in Jackson County when the rear of a car she was a passenger in was struck by an auto driven by the defendant.

Training Tomatoes

Tomato plants are growing rapidly.

If you have decided to stake, tie and prune your plants, now is the time to get started on the project.

If you are undecided whether to stake your tomatoes or not perhaps a list of advantages and disadvantages will enable you to reach a decision. Some advantages of staked and pruned tomatoes are first: earlier ripening—at least you are likely to have one or two fruits ripen earlier than down tomatoes—cleaner fruit, free of stain and rot, since fruit does not touch ground—easier to control foliage diseases and insects—foliage is up in the air where it is easy to get coverage with spray material—easier to harvest—you can see when the tomatoes are ripe—takes less garden space.

Some disadvantages are: cost of stakes and twine which may be small if scrap materials or sapling poles are locally available—time must be spent training plants — pruned plants are more subject to blossom and rot, mosaic, and cracking than down tomatoes so they need better care, such as good fertile soil in a good location, and proper watering, fertilizing, and spraying.

If you decide to stake, tie and prune your tomatoes this year here are some suggestions.

If this is your first attempt at this practice, we would strongly suggest that you stick to the single stem method of pruning. It is a good method and avoids confusion.

Essentially, pruning consists of removal of suckers. Suckers are new shoots that arise in every leaf axil—this is where the tomato leaf or leaflet branch is attached to the main stem. So, look closely and make sure you can find the plant parts mentioned above.

Suckers should be removed when they are about two to three inches long.

Grasp the sucker between the thumb and forefinger, and pull outward and downward. Touch the remainder of the plant as little as possible to avoid spreading possible virus diseases.

Avoid letting suckers get too large. This means going over the plants every other day and checking for new suckers and those you might have missed.

Continue suckering the plant right through the season. One word of caution! When suckering, do not remove the growing tip or terminal of the plant. On occasion, the growing tip can be confused with a vigorous sucker. So look carefully!

For staking tomatoes, use a 1x1 or 1x2 stake about six feet long. Place the stake in the tomato row four inches to the side of the plant. Drive the stake into the soil from 6 to 12 inches, depending upon the type of soil you have.

As for tying the plants to the stake, use any soft cord, baler or binder twine, or just strips of cloth.

Cord or twine should be tied firmly to the stake, brought around a leaflet branch below the tie on the stake, and then back to the stake where it is again tied.

The cord or twine should serve as a sling — such as to hold a broken arm. Do not tie the tomato stem tightly against the stake; it needs room to grow and expand.

And, finally, if you smoke, be sure to wash your hands thoroughly in soap and water before handling tomato plants to avoid the spread of tobacco mosaic.

Take Time

We want to urge you to take some time and inspect your crops, gardens and other plants for insects. This inspection won't take much of your time and it might keep insects from injuring your crops or plants.

Army Worms

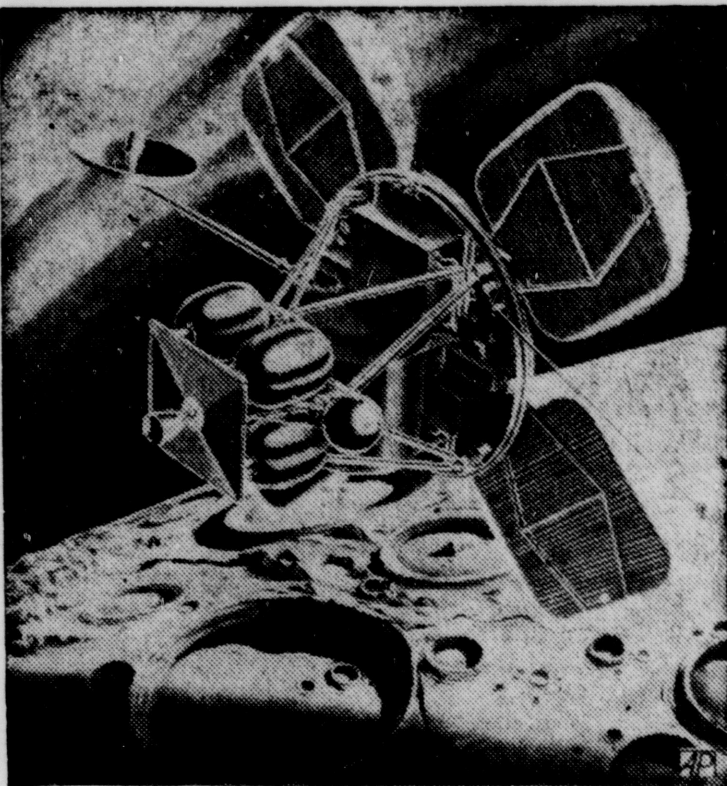

The majority of the army-worm troubles are just beginning in the central portion of the state. As is always true, the more rank and dense the small grain growth, the more army-worms. Counts showed from 1 to 12 per square foot of wheat; and from 0 to 29 per square foot of barley. Lodged spots may have even higher numbers. Most of the worms are less than one-half grown.

On small grains to be harvested for grain, spray with either 1½ pounds toxaphene (1 quart 60-65 per cent toxaphene emulsifiable concentrate) or 4 ounces dieldrin (1-1.3 pints 18.6 per cent dieldrin emulsifiable concentrate) per acre. DO NOT harvest grain within 7 days of spraying with dieldrin, and dieldrin treated straw should not be fed to dairy animals or shipped within interstate commerce. Toxaphene treated straw also should not be fed to dairy animals or animals being finished for slaughter.

Variegated Cutworms

In this area the problem continues. Worms ranged in size from one-fourth to nearly full grown and counts in alfalfa range from 0 to 7 per square foot.

If the new growth does not green up shortly after removing the crop, check around the crowns and under plant debris for these grayish-brown worms with several small orange spots on their backs. Where the new growth alfalfa is less than three inches in height, either 1½ pounds toxaphene or 4 ounces dieldrin per acre can be used, however, if this new growth crop or second cutting is to be fed to dairy animals, animals being finished for slaughter, sold in interstate commerce, or harvested for alfalfa meal purposes, the possibility of residues remaining at the time of harvest can be avoided by using 1½ pounds carbaryl (Sevin) per acre. Where new growth is three inches or more in height, use the carbaryl recommendation.

MOON ORBITER — This artist's concept is of Boeing lunar orbiter circling moon with open petals of solar cell panels, photographing surface for telecasts to earth.

Cutworms in Corn

Some fields of small corn show very light cutworm injury. Occasionally, both the black and the dingy cutworms can be found, ranging in size from one-third to two-thirds grown. Use either 1½ pounds toxaphene or 4 ounces dieldrin sprayed directly over the row for control of those cutworms that work above the surface of the ground. For subterranean cutworms, use either 3 pounds toxaphene or 8 ounces dieldrin sprayed at the base of the plants and on the ground in the planted row. Follow this spraying with a light cultivation in which some dirt is thrown over the treated area.

Rootless Corn

A few instances were observed where seedling corn had developed no primary root systems. Such plants usually have a well developed tap root which bears signs of primary roots starting out but then dying. These plants fall over easily and usually wilt during the heat of the day. No soil insects were found associated with this type of injury.

Extension field crops specialists report that such injury is most often the result of shallow or uneven depth of planting, but that various root rot organisms and 2-4-D granules in direct contact with the root could also cause this type of injury.

Make a Backrubber

With a possible face fly problem ahead, we need to start getting those backrubbers made for our cattle.

Many backrubbers are satisfactorily made by using a light chain or several strands of heavy wire. These are wrapped several times with burlap and saturated with various solutions — according to the type of fly you wish to control. If barbed wire is used in a back rubber — care should be taken to prevent any of the barbs being exposed — because they may injure the animal.

Flies can certainly affect cattle and the use of backrubbers is a good way to help eliminate flies.

Spraying Pastures

Weeds keep most of us from getting as much grazing from our permanent pastures as we would like. And fighting weeds in our permanent pastures presents different problems than fighting them on cropland. But spraying with 2,4-D and related material does afford a relatively cheap easy method of controlling many of our pasture weeds.

We do have to use judgment and adjust our spraying to fit the kind of pasture mixture that we have. For example, if your problem is weed grasses, you just can't kill those weed grasses without at least seriously damaging your desirable grasses. And if your pasture includes legumes other than lespedeza or white or ladino clover, spraying with 2,4-D is pretty well out of the picture, unless you are willing to sacrifice the legumes.

But in spite of these problems, it is practical to spray many of our pastures, and control broad-leaved weeds even better than we can by mowing.

This is because broad-leaved weeds often branch out below where they are cut, and though they are set back, may actually become a thicker stand when they resume growth.

Annual weeds such as rag-weeds, and some biennials such as dock and bull thistle, can be killed with applications of ¾ to 1 lb-A acid equivalent of an amine form of 2,4-D. Lespedeza and white and ladino clover may be hurt some by this treatment, but wherever weed growth is heavy, may be expected to recover and make more growth in the long run because the weeds were killed. Where annual weeds are the main problem, spray while the weeds are young to get the best kill. Rag-weeds, for example, are easily killed up to 3" to 4" high, but may be hard to kill later.

Where perennial weeds are present, such as ironweeds, you will need to increase the rates to 1½ to 2 lb-A of the acid equivalent of the ester form of 2,4-D. This means all legumes will be seriously damaged, but you may prefer to spray and reseed the legumes later. Recent work indicates that we will get a better kill on ironweeds when the spraying is done about the time these weeds reach 12-15 inches in height. Spraying just one year won't kill all of these perennial weeds but it appears that spraying in two successive years at this state will do as good a job as we used to get from four years of spraying when we waited till the bud to early bloom stage.

This 1½ to 2 lb. rate of ester will work on buckbrush too, provided you put the spray on while the buckbrush leaves are still young. Best kills are obtained right after the buckbrush leaves reach full size, and you are likely to get a poor kill if you don't spray buckbrush by around June 1.

If you have briars or other small brush in your pasture you will want to make up a half and half mixture of 2,4,5-T and 2,4-D, since the 2,4,5-T works better on briars and many species of brush. Sprays won't replace all mowing of pastures, since mowing may still be needed to reduce spot grazing or to permit excessive growth to be used for hay. But, fortunately, millions of acres of Missouri pastures that can benefit from spraying have the kinds of legumes that will permit sprays to be used.

Ann Landers
Answers
Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: My husband's job takes him out on the road four days a week. Lately he has started something new.

When he returns on Thursday night he lines up our three boys ages 12, 10 and 6, and invites them to tell on each other.

The one who has the "most complete" report — this means the child who tells the most on his brothers — is the winner of a nice, new shiny dollar.

I didn't like the idea from the first and I said so. It makes me sick to hear these children tattle on one another. My husband says it is the best way to keep them in line.

Last night I heard the middle boy add all sorts of curly-cues to an incident which he was reporting about his older brother. Later I asked him why he embellished the story beyond the truth. He replied, "Because I wanted to win the dollar."

Please print my letter and your answer. I would like my husband to see it.—THE AGAINSTER.

Dear Againster: I hope your husband will disband the home-grown spy ring at once. The little game he is playing will unquestionably develop some very undesirable character traits in his sons. It will also teach them to distrust and despise each other.

If your husband must play games he should encourage each boy to report on himself. Such reporting will foster truth and integrity.

Dear Ann Landers: Five months ago today I got my engagement ring. I was the happiest girl alive.

The wedding is planned for September, but as the time draws near I become more frightened and less sure of my love. All Mac and I do is fight. We haven't had a pleasant evening together in weeks.

Certain things about Mac I used to think were cute now annoy me—his laugh for instance. I fixed him a bacon and tomato sandwich last night and he found four things wrong with it: the bread was too hard, there wasn't enough butter, the tomato was soggy and the bacon was too crisp.

Do all engaged couples go through a stage like this? I am 23 and Mac is 26. — STAGE FRIGHT.

Dear Fright: Engaged people who would argue about a bacon and tomato sandwich are probably dwelling on trifles because they don't want to face up to their real problems.

If you two can't get your relationship on an even keel I urge you to break the engagement. This is not a stage. It's a preview of what your marriage would be like.

Dear Ann Landers: If you tell one more young girl to give up her out-of-wedlock child I'll scream.

How can you be so heartless? Don't you see that often the baby is all the girl will have in her whole life. I know what I'm talking about because it happened for me.

A social worker talked me into giving up my baby 18 years ago and I've cried myself to sleep every night since. Whenever I see a teen-ager on the street I wonder if it could be mine.

My parents are dead now and I have two sisters who don't talk to me. All I know is work, an empty house and hours of loneliness. If I had kept my child my life would have been full. You are wrong, wrong, wrong.—JONQUIL.

Dear Jonquil: The social worker gave you good advice. To bring up a fatherless child is plenty tough, even for women who have strength and emotional stability. A woman who has cried every night for 18 years would probably have raised a child with a million problems.

If you are honest you'll admit you wanted the child NOT for the child's sake, but for your own.

Wind Sweeps Changes For Churches Too

LONDON (AP)—The wind of change sweeping Africa is affecting churches as well as politics and social customs.

Most of today's African political leaders are necessarily the educational product of church mission schools. When they were young there was no one else to teach them.

Whether still practicing Christians or not, they remain personally linked with the white man's religion. In the eyes of their tribal followers the old-time missionaries, who taught them and are often still their friends, are onetime representatives of the colonial powers.

There could be material here for more rabidly nationalistic circles to mount attacks on spiritual neo-colonialism. The fact there has been so little of this may be due to the pioneering foresight of the churches themselves. Most of them started Africanization of their own ranks long before there was any question of political independence for the territories in which they were operating.

The Church of England, for example, consecrated its first African bishop — Samuel Adjai Crowther, a freed slave—in Nigeria as long ago as 1846. Today, five of the eight dioceses in the Anglican Church of Nigeria have local-born bishops.

The Roman Catholic Church has an African cardinal in Tanganyika.

New 'Jazz and Religion'
In Experimental Stages

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—The trumpet man blows it hot and wild. The piano and bass pick up the beat. When the music stops, a man stands up to read "beat" poetry.

But the man is a minister. Those who listen are seated in pews, not at candlelit tables. The scene is "jazz and religion," an experimental vesper service at Louisville's First Unitarian church.

The reader of poetry and moving spirit in organizing this jazz service was William David Brown, a bespectacled, energetic young man with red hair who is quick to tell you he thinks jazz is entirely appropriate in a 1964 church service.

Mr. Brown — he declines the title of reverend—said, "Jazz is an honest musical reflection of the state of man in the United States today. If it is dissonant it is because we are dissonant." He maintained that the more serene music usually played in churches seems worshipful only because we are conditioned to it.

But he admitted that he could not adopt the jazz format of the vesper service to his regular Sunday morning service. The congregation would be too shocked. Brown said he believes the reason many people dislike modern art is that it tells them unpleasant truths about themselves. The same sort of feeling, he said, would cause resistance to the use of jazz in church.

The vesper service, tried here for the first time this spring, had as its theme, "The Triumph and Mystery of Man." Triumph here, the Unitarian pastor said, indicated man's cumulative achievements and the continuation of the species.

He added that such dedication of a worship service to man was entirely consistent with Unitarian philosophy. Unitarians he said, "believe in the worth and dignity of man and have never accepted his debasement."

The music for the service was provided by Don Murray and the Louisville Jazz Lab, a group of 21 young musicians, many of them students.

Murray, a pianist who also composes classical music, wrote many of the jazz pieces especially for the service. He said his group tried to represent all kinds of jazz in setting up the program.

Brown said he is eager to have another jazz service. But since the church can not afford to hire a band, he will have to wait until the Jazz Lab can volunteer its services again, which will probably be nearly another year.

He noted that jazz has been played in many other American churches. Jazz Masses even have been written for Catholic and Episcopal churches.

Ways to Insure Leisure

Want to keep from getting a job when you graduate from school?

Here are some simple things to do that will practically insure a summer — maybe even a lifetime — of leisure:

- Show your individuality by effecting a Beatle haircut and other touches of distinction which make it clear you have a personality of your own.

- Show up late and keep your interviewer waiting. Let him know you're not falling over yourself to land this job.

- Pull up a chair real close to the interviewer, rearrange the stuff on his desk so his ashtray is near you, and light up. This shows you are at ease and at home anywhere.

- Tell him frankly what you think is wrong with his business. So he burns a little. So what? If he can't take a little honest criticism, he's too narrow-minded to fool around with.

- Make sure the company is broadminded about coffee breaks, long lunch hours, tardiness, absenteeism and time out for personal business. Bear down on this. It will indicate you have your career carefully planned.

- Let the interviewer know the company will be lucky to get you—that a lot of other outfits are bidding for you.

- If a starting salary is mentioned, react with pain and hurt surprise. Explain that your professor thought you would be worth a lot more.

Follow this routine and it's dollars to doughnuts you end up with time to catch up on your sleep in the mornings and to polish up your golf game — assuming, of course, that you can get hold of the dough to play.

Poverty Challenge

If money could buy happiness, President Johnson's war on poverty would be a simple matter. His call for a $220-million attack on the depressed areas of the Appalachian states could be repeated elsewhere in the country, with corps commanders in Washington pinpointing the offensives on a map.

Nothing can be done without money, of course, and balanced against the national income, the $220 million is something we can well afford. Indeed, we cannot afford not to spend it to try to eliminate this grave contradiction of poverty in the midst of plenty.

But assigning the funds is only the beginning. What will be needed most of all is intelligent and imaginative planning and co-operation between federal and local officials. The goal is not mere relief but the rebuilding of the entire economy of Appalachia and integrating it with the national economy as a whole.

Not least of all will be the part which private enterprise plays in establishing industries and tapping this reservoir of unused human energies and, in the doing, creating a self-regenerating market for itself.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Anti-Cigaret Program for U. S. Youth

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON—As an answer to the surgeon general's cigaret report, the federal government is preparing proposals for a massive educational program aimed at stopping cigaret addiction among the young people.

The recommendations of all interested government agencies have been submitted to the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, which is fashioning the final draft.

This will call for (1) an all-out drive to encourage schools to teach the dangers of smoking; (2) warnings in cigaret advertising that smoking may injure health; and (3) a research effort to isolate and eliminate, if possible, the harmful substances in tobacco.

A final decision hasn't been handed down as to whether the advertising curbs should be voluntary or should be enforced by the government. The prevailing sentiment is to adopt a broad regulation and leave it to the tobacco industry to set its own specific advertising standards.

The educational material to discourage young people from smoking would be prepared by a joint board, staffed by representatives from all the appropriate government agencies. The idea would be to strike at the source of cigaret addiction: youths in their teens and twenties.

Originally, HEW had planned to submit the final proposals to President Johnson for his approval. However, Secretary Anthony Celebrezze is now inclined to release it directly to the public in order to spare the president any possible political embarrassment.

For this is an issue which affects the prosperity of a great industry and the health of the American people.

MILWAUKEE JOURNAL: No Convention Deadlocks?—Back in 1924 the Democrats set a record for the length of balloting to choose their nominee for President. It took about three weeks and 103 ballots to choose John W. Davis after a deadlock struggle between Alfred E. Smith and William Gibbs McAdoo.

The Democrats expect nothing like that this year—it seems a foregone conclusion that President Lyndon Johnson will be nominated on the first ballot. But the Republicans have a problem. If, as could happen, no candidate enters the San Francisco convention in July with nearly enough delegates to win on early ballots, a real deadlock could develop.

In 1924 the Democrats could sit as long as they chose in New York and argue about a candidate. But this is 1964 and the conventions will be on the television sets over the nation. A drawnout deadlock could hurt a party, open wounds that could not be healed by election day and disgust the nation's voters. So Republican leaders are thinking of how to avoid one. No party can afford to bore the voters and television watchers to death.

"Cash"

The word "cash" originated in France, where the old French word "cassee" meant "a little box where money was kept." Gradually, the money took on the name of the box and "cash" came to us as an important word today.

Call Girl 'Confessions'

A fast-talking private eye has identified himself as the source of a lurid tape recording, which the Senate rules counsel has linked with an alleged blackmail plot.

The two-hour recording was made by a confessed call girl. She gave a titillating account of her relations with high officials from the White House on down, including at least two members of the Senate rules committee.

Investigators finally broke down her story, however, by asking whether Sen. Carl Hayden (D-Ariz.) had been one of her customers. She blithely added him to her list, boasting of some unlikely high jinks with the 86-year-old Senate dean.

When they pointed out his age, she confessed that she had lied not only about Hayden but about most of the other prominent people.

This discredited recording was the alleged blackmail evidence which counsel Lennox McClendon described in his report to the Senate rules committee as "lurid, obscene, and . . . obviously manufactured."

He charged that it was part of "a well-laid plan and design by certain people of highly questionable character to promote testimony by others of equally questionable character."

Washington Sidelights

Peace Corps director Sargent Shriver seemed to be cast for the role when he testified on the anti-poverty program before the House labor committee. He had a conspicuous hole in the heel of one sock, just above the shoe line. After millionaire Shriver was put in charge of the fight against poverty, his aides suggested that he write his autobiography and call it: "From Riches to Rags." Rep. Dan Flood, D-Pa., recalled at a closed-door meeting of the House military appropriations subcommittee that he is besieged with gripes from the military. One squawk he had to straighten out, he said, had to do with WAC underwear. "It was khaki, and the girls didn't like it," he said.

The World Today

Victory Not a Certainty for Barry

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—"Santa Claus dreams or rolled up sleeves," Sen. Barry Goldwater said last January. "We have to make a choice." He was criticizing President Johnson's anti-poverty program.

He accused Johnson of "Santa Claus promises" and in that same speech revealed perhaps as much about his own "rolled up sleeves" attitude toward life in America as anything he has ever said:

"We are told that many people lack skills and cannot find jobs because they did not have an education. That's like saying people have big feet because they wear big shoes."

"The fact is that most people who have no skill have had no education for the same reason—low intelligence or low ambition."

But this speech did more than criticize Johnson. It served to illustrate an essential point for the Arizona Republican. Just a few days before he had announced he would seek the Republican presidential nomination.

It had taken him some time to reach this decision, although for years he had been whipping up and down and across the landscape making speeches which endeared him to the Republican professionals.

As he declared last fall, over those years he had said a "thousand times I'm going to run for the Senate, nothing more." Now, by his decision, he was giving Republicans of all shades a choice.

Did the highly conservative Goldwater represent their thinking or did they want a more moderate or liberal candidate for president? Republican voters have since decided against him in a couple of presidential primary contests.

In New Hampshire he finished second behind Henry Cabot Lodge, U.S. ambassador to Viet Nam, who didn't even say he wanted the nomination, and more recently in Oregon where he finished third behind New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and Lodge.

Nevertheless, despite these defeats, Goldwater's years of work for the party had won him broad support from the professionals and he had accumulated a huge number of other states' delegates going to the nominating convention next month.

Yet, Tuesday's California primary contest between him and Rockefeller may be the turning point for Goldwater. If he loses, it could finish him. If he wins, his delegate strength going into the convention will look overwhelming.

But looks are not a certainty and Goldwater could still lose in the convention for this is an unusual situation for Republicans.

This is the first time since 1952 that they have had a chance to choose between a highly conservative candidate and a more moderate one. Then it was between Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio. Taft lost.

Bladder Inflammation
Complication of Infection

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.,
Newspaper Enterprise Association

If you have cystitis or inflammation of the bladder, the passage of urine is frequent—even though the amount passed at any one time may be scanty—and it is also painful.

Cystitis may occur as a complication of an acute infection such as influenza, scarlet fever, septic sore throat or the common cold. The guilty bacteria or virus may get into your bladder through the blood stream or may travel up the urethra from the outside.

One reader complains of interstitial cystitis. This is especially hard to treat. With this type there is inflammation of the deeper as well as of the outside layers of the bladder.

In some victims in addition to symptoms referable to the bladder there may be nausea and vomiting. Prompt and effective treatment is necessary to prevent the involvement of the kidneys—a much more serious matter.

Treatment includes forcing fluids to flush out the bladder and to dilute the acidity of the urine. Drugs and a low-protein diet are given to further alkalize the urine. When the germ is identified, the sulfonamide or antibiotic most effective can be given. When such treatment is prescribed it must be continued for at least two weeks even though the disease appears to be cured sooner—otherwise there is danger of a recurrence.

Urinary antiseptic drugs are sometimes combined with antispasmodics and pain relievers with good results. A new urinary antiseptic, nalidixic acid, has been hailed as a boon because it is effective against the Proteus germ. This organism has become resistant to most of the older antibiotics. Since it is not an antibiotic it is hoped that it will not stimulate these germs to become drug-resistant.

HIGHLIGHTS AND
FROM YOUR STATE
CAPITOLInsurance Is A Big
Missouri Business

The insurance business in Missouri today is a big affair and when a company licensed to operate in the state, folds, thousands of persons are affected financially. Fortunately, in the last decade only about a half dozen companies operating in Missouri have gone under.

Today, there are over 900 companies, offering a variety of insurance, licensed by the state. These 900 companies employ over 80,000 agents and salesmen. According to a state insurance official, the vast majority of these agents cause little trouble, with complaints coming through the activities of "perhaps only 100."

Recently wide publicity was given to the fact that Crown Insurance Co. of West Virginia, a company writing high-risk automobile insurance, was placed in receivership, leaving a reported 50,000 policy holders without full coverage in this state alone.

A person covered by an insurance company that goes out of business isn't left exactly holding an empty bag. The policyholder can file claims against the company, with a court appointed receiver handling these claims.

Liquidation proceedings are then begun and a person may get a certain percentage back, depending, of course, upon how bad off the company was when it folded.

According to the state Division of Insurance, a lot of the trouble in the insurance field stems from the activities of "high risk" insurance firms. These are companies which will insure drivers most companies consider untouchable . . . drivers who have a history of numerous wrecks, etc.

To indicate the scope of the insurance field in Missouri, one merely has to look at the amount of premiums paid by Missourians. Last year, this approached $400,000,000. And, these 900 companies paid the state better than $14,000,000 in taxes, half of which goes to the schools.

Each year, the state receives approximately 1,200 complaints against the activities of certain insurance companies. Each complaint is checked out and if found valid, the company is contacted. And, one official stated, the company generally makes good.

However, this is about all the state can do. If a company balks, then the complaining policy holder is advised to secure counsel and sue.

Each company doing business in Missouri is licensed for only one year at a time. And, each March 1 every company must send an exhaustive financial statement to the Division of Insurance. If a company's assets appear to be dwindling, the state can insist that more capital be raised before issuing another license.

Every so often, one hears of unethical practices, particularly in the selling end, of the insurance business. In order not to be caught short, the state advises a prospective policy buyer to thoroughly investigate the company. On request, the state will provide a person with information concerning how much money any given insurance company (operating in Missouri of course) made or lost during the previous year; how long it has been in operation; and, the extent of its liabilities.

Currently, an interim committee of the General Assembly is looking into ways to modernize the state insurance laws and legislation is expected to be introduced next year in several areas now causing concern to the state.

Central Printing Plan
Still Being Considered

Periodically, a number of state officials voice complaints about the high cost of state printing and urge that printing of many departments and agencies be consolidated into a single operation.

One suggestion has been that a separate department be set up, possibly as part of the Budget Office, to handle the every day printing needs of the various agencies. This, it is contended, could cut out a great deal of duplication in time and effort.

According to the State Purchasing office, there are over 65 offset printing machines scattered throughout the capitol and outlying state agencies in Jefferson City. Each of these costs a minimum of $3,500.

The cost of these machines alone would run over a quarter of a million dollars. In addition, such agencies as the Conservation Commission, Division of Commerce and Industrial Development, Employment Security and Revenue Department have highly technical printing facilities.

Some, it is reported, even are equipped for multiple color press runs.

The state Budget Office, under Charles Trigg, has developed its own central printing idea on a minor scale and probably saves many of the smaller agencies a great deal of money. The Budget Office has two of the small printing presses and prints, free of charge, for the small-budget departments.

A similar idea, on a much larger scale, has been urged for all departments. The Little Hoover Commission, among other things, is looking into the idea of a central printing setup and possibly will recommend this to the 73rd General Assembly.

Conservation Building
Now Well Underway

The 25-year dream of the Missouri Conservation Commission, a building of its own, is well on the road to reality. Ground has been broken for the $797,000 structure and the target date for completion is July 1965.

One unusual aspect of the new Conservation Commission building is the fact that no special appropriation was made by the legislature. The building is being paid for entirely out of money "stashed" away by the agency over the past 25 years, from hunting and fishing licenses.

It's the Law
In Missouri

Question: Is an oral agreement to deed property legal?

Facts: John Jones owned a house at North 123 Fourth Street. The legal description of the property was lot one of block one of Dog Fennel Addition to Jefferson City, Missouri. Jones decided to sell the house for $10,000. His neighbor, Bob Smith, hearing that Jones wanted to sell, offered him $9,800 for the property and Jones accepted the offer. Smith said, "I'll pay you $100 now to bind the deal," and did pay Jones the $100. No contract was signed by the two men, however. Later that day someone else offered Jones $10,000 for the house and Jones accepted the offer, signed a contract to sell to the other person for $10,000, and received a $500 earnest money payment on the contract. The next day Jones offered Smith his $100 back, telling him the house was sold. Smith refused to accept the money, saying he had a binding contract and he intended to enforce it, even if he had to go to court to do so. Can Smith compel Jones to go through with the sale?

Answer: The answer is "No." Any contract for the sale or conveyance of real estate must be in writing and must be signed by the parties to the contract to be binding. In addition to that the contract must be definite, and in this instance it should have had a legal description of the real estate in order to make it enforceable. The oral contract was not legal and binding but Jones would have to pay back to Smith, the $100 down payment.

Munich Tries to Make Up For the Hitler Brutalities

THE HITLER YEARS: Nazi terrorists block the entrance to a Jewish-owned shop in Munich during the anti-Semitic campaign of 1933.

By TOM A. CULLEN

MUNICH —(NEA)— Munich, the city where Adolf Hitler got his start, is atoning for the crimes which Hitler committed against the Jews.

For one thing, Munich is doing its best to make those Jews who have returned to live here feel at home. "We regard this as a challenge to the new German democracy," explains Dr. Anton Fingerle, superintendent of Munich's schools.

As early as 1948 Munich took the lead in forming the first Christian-Jewish association in West Germany. Since then, 36 chapters of the association have sprung up.

Munich has pioneered also in the establishment of cultural exchanges with Israel. Bubbling with enthusiasm the Lord Mayor of Munich, Dr. Vogel, has just returned from a tour of the Zionist state, and he has recommended that Munich send groups of teachers and students to Israel twice a year on an exchange basis.

This is in addition to the scholarships which Munich already offers to Israelis, particularly to those studying in social welfare fields.

There were half a million Jews in the German Reich in 1933. Some 270,000 emigrated; 190,000 were killed. Today only 30,000 are left in the Federal Republic.

Of this pitiful remnant, approximately one-sixth live in Munich, which thus has the largest Jewish population of any West German city.

In his office in Munich's pink, Gothic-style city hall, Fingerle explained what Munich is doing to combat the anti-Semitism which lingers as a hangover from the Nazi regime.

Early in March each year Munich sponsors a Brotherhood Week, during which the unity of all religious and racial groups is stressed by means of lectures, exhibits, public discussion.

American industry is expected to invest a record $43 billion in new plants and equipment in 1964, up $16 billion from 1963.

The average American home is held together by 40,000 nails, an unpaid mortgage and the determined will of a wife.

It has been estimated that an American businessman during the course of his lifetime spends about 8,760 hours—one full year—on the telephone.

If the old have their problems, so do the young. People under 25 represent only about one-fifth of the U.S. labor force—but a full one-third of the unemployed.

Special Report Californians Indifferent To GOP Nominee Issue

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Those curious people, the Californians, seem to be displaying a great indifference to the vital business of picking a Republican presidential nominee in their June 2 primary.

The concentration of news media personnel in this former center of movie-making would indicate that something important is going to happen in next Tuesday's primary voting. This contest pits Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., against New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller—and the assembled noncandidate aspirants for the nomination to oppose President Johnson in November.

Ordinarily, a chance to help choose a party nominee would exhilarate the residents of almost any state. It did exhilarate the Republican voters of Oregon on May 15, when Rockefeller won a victory the pollsters had failed to forecast.

Confronted with the possibility they may be able to veto one of the two challengers for the nomination, California's voters seem to be replying with a political yawn to the campaigns of Goldwater and Rockefeller for the state's 86 GOP presidential nominating delegates.

A drive down California's freeways discloses billboards extolling virtues of the opposing presidential candidates. But off-freeway stops with average citizens registered a minimum of interest.

The cliché being passed among politicians was that the crowds didn't listen to what Goldwater had to say and applauded him vigorously, while they listened to Rockefeller but didn't applaud.

This perverse attitude on the part of California voters left political forecasters nonplussed, despite state polls indicating Rockefeller now is enjoying a surprising substantial lead over the Arizona senator.

But no expert could judge from the reception of the two candidates how their campaigns really were going.

In the campaign rallies, the "We want Barry" chant boomed out over full convention halls. The bright lights burned down on the gray-haired candidate from Arizona. The pretty girls in their cowboy hats marched about. But there was no convincing air of victory in all of the maneuverings.

In contrast, Rockefeller, his hair awry, signed autographs in a group pressing around him and stepped onto a platform to declaim his views earnestly and somewhat monotonously. There were seldom any "We want Rocky" shouts. But the New York governor's campaign, nevertheless, had acquired an atmosphere of victory that seemed to be lacking in his opponent's.

Starlet Cops Teen-age Set

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Annette Funicello, 21, is the movie darling of the teen-age set—and the 12-year-old darling of the mop-pet set.

It's the most unusual dual life in Hollywood.

Annette is the former Walt Disney Mouseketeer who developed into a shapely brunette and starred in such movies as "Beach Party," "Muscle Beach Party," and currently in "Bikini Beach."

Not since Sandra Dee hit big in the original "Gidget" series has a young girl so captivated the teen-age market.

But the original Mouseketeer series is being rerun on television and 12-year-old Annette is once again the star of a new generation of mop-pets.

American-International Pictures sends out fan mail photos of Annette in bathing suits which accentuate her curves and built-in sex appeal.

Disney Studios get just as many requests for photos. So they send out pictures of the 21-year-old Annette.

"It creates a big problem," says Annette, "when I make personal appearance tours for my current movies. The theaters mostly are filled with little children who think I'm some kind of a phony."

"Hey, you're not Annette," the little ones say. "You're too old. I can't answer them."

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—It's harder to cast a butterfly in a movie than Elizabeth Taylor. Columbia Pictures needs a live butterfly for the movie "The Collector."

The prop department almost went nuts trying to find one. One prop man sent a man by car some 440 miles to a Northern California butterfly farm and then south to another one in Santa Barbara. He came back butterflyless.

Next a phone call went to James C. Brooks in Macon, Ga., a noted collector. He referred him to another collector.

Edmund Salle, Fort Deposit, Ala., told the studio representative that he had lots of live butterflies but they would disintegrate if shipped airmail for the movie schedule. Butterflies live only two weeks.

Salle referred prop man Bernie Levine to a butterfly farm at El Cajon, in nearby San Diego County.

Fred Thorne of El Cajon drove his butterfly to the studio, a 120-mile drive, and the scenes were shot.

The butterfly was named Elizabeth.

lord Perry and Galen Cisco — and their teammates — the San Francisco Giants and the New York Mets — did just that Sunday as they waded through 23 innings in the longest game in major league history from the standpoint of time.

The Giants and the Mets did not exactly play on Broadway but a few miles away at Shea Stadium. The Giants won the seven-hour-and-23-minute production 8-6. The victory came after they had taken a mere 2:29 to win the opener of the doubleheader 5-3.

Just 15 days before, in San Francisco, the same teams played 15 innings with the Giants winning 6-4. Perry was the winner in that one and Cisco the loser.

The right-handed hurlers performed in the same roles Sunday. Perry, who pitched only one inning in the earlier game, went 10 innings this time. Cisco, who lasted 12-3 innings May 16, made it through nine innings.

The game took more time than it would to sit through Hamlet twice. The New York Yankees and the Detroit Tigers previously had played the longest game—seven hours even—June 24, 1962. And only three games went more innings than Sunday's.

Cisco—who really couldn't be blamed if, like Hamlet, he started seeing ghosts — limited the Giants to two hits in eight innings before Jim Davenport tripled with two out in the 23rd.

Pinch hitter Del Crandall drove Davenport home with a ground-rule double after Cap Peterson was walked purposely. Jesus Alou brought Peterson home with an infield single.

Elsewhere in the NL, Chicago nipped Milwaukee 4-3 in 10 innings. Philadelphia stopped Houston 4-1, Los Angeles got by Pittsburgh 6-4 and St. Louis edged Cincinnati 2-1 after losing 6-0.

A crowd of 57,037, largest in the majors this season, saw the Mets pull a triple play in the 14th inning and Giants' Manager Al Dark ejected in the 15th. The fans also saw the Mets' Joe Christopher play the role of the villain with his three-run homer in the seventh that sent the game into extra innings.

Orlando Cepeda stole home with the deciding run in the opener. Juan Marichal won his eighth game in nine decisions. Billy Williams cracked his 13th home run in the 10th inning for the Cubs' triumph.

Billy Cowan's run-scoring single tied the game for the Cubs in the ninth. Williams, getting three hits, increased his league-leading average to .414.

Art Mahaffey walked seven Colts, but Richie Allen and Ruben Amaro backed him with two-run homers as the Phillies remained in first place.

Sandy Koufax won his fifth game against four defeats, but he needed the aid of Pittsburgh errors and reliever Ron Perzanoski. Two of the Dodgers' runs in the four-run third scored with the help of the miscues. Tommy Davis singled home Jim Gilliam with the tie-breaking run in the eighth.

Bob Gibson ignited a two-run Cardinals' rally in the eighth inning of the nightcap with a single, then held off a Reds' outburst in the ninth for his fifth triumph against one loss. Dick Groat's sacrifice fly and Ken Boyer's single sent St. Louis' runs off John Tostouris, who until the eighth had given up just five hits.

RACE THAT RAIN HALTED—Super modified racers roar out of the north turn and down the straightaway for the start of "A" feature at the state fairgrounds Memorial Day. Rain began to fall while the caution flag was out after two laps of racing and at 6 p.m. the race was cancelled. The trophy dash, hobby car race, five heat races and "B" feature were completed. About 6,500 persons attended. Russell Hibbard, won the inside pole position for the start and was leading when the race was called. (Democrat-Capital photo)

Merchants
Win Twice
On Weekend

The Sedalia Merchants blasted a Missouri State Prison team 9-5 in a game Sunday afternoon, then Sunday night took the Jefferson City Birds 7-3.

In the Sunday afternoon game, the 9-5 victory included home runs by Hank Apelman and Bill Hill. Bill Dey had four hits in five tries to lead the heavy attack. Terry Fletcher and Bob Brown held the Jefferson City team to nine hits and five runs.

Fletcher allowed eight hits and five runs, fanned nine and walked three. Brown allowed one hit and no runs, fanned two and walked one.

Dixon of the Jefferson City team had three for four including a double. Dick Horner came out of his slump with a bang and had three RBI to tie Bill Hill.

Sunday night the Merchants gained revenge for a bad trimming Thursday night by the Jefferson City Birds, winning behind the strong pitcher, Skip Schultz, 7-3. Dick Horner starred on defense at Third base for the Merchants. Bill Hill hit his second home run of the day with a three-run shot over the center field fence.

These were the first runs of a young season off Bill Clarkston, former Ban Johnson star for the Jefferson City Bears. Bill Hill led the Merchants with two for three at bats. Schultz pitched and batted himself to a victory, allowing three runs, eight hits, and walking no one, and hitting a double off the left field fence. Clarkston allowed seven runs on only five hits, walking one and striking out nine Merchants.

Dave Smith led the Jefferson City team attack with three for four, raising his season average to .550.

The Merchants will play host to the Sedalia Ban Johnson team Tuesday night at Liberty Park at 8 p.m. Starting pitchers will be Clyde Kuhl for the Merchants and Don Wilhite for the Ban Johnson team.

Rain threatened all day and finally came late in the afternoon halting the A feature in the Jaycee-sponsored Memorial Day races after only two laps of competition.

Cloudy skies, however, didn't keep the crowd away and Jaycees estimated attendance at 6,500.

Russell Hibbard, Slater, the state's defending modified champion, turned in the top qualifying time, took the trophy dash and earned first place money in the A feature as he was running No. 1 when the race had to be called.

Tom Corbin, Carrollton, zipped to a new record in winning the 15-lap feature for B cars. Corbin turned the distance in 6:42.50, handily chopping the old record for the event which he set last year at 7:21.

A tangle on the south turn halted the A feature after only two laps and rain started to fall about 5:15 p.m. The race was cancelled at 6 p.m.

John Backland, Kansas City, went over the top of the south curve in the A feature. His car went end-over-end and the motor caught fire. A CMRA fire-truck crewman doused the blaze with a hand extinguisher before much damage to the car or injury to the driver resulted.

Also involved in the same tangle was Joe Smith, Jefferson City, whose car came to rest on its wheels below the south turn.

A multi-car tangle on the south curve in the first B heat of the afternoon sent two drivers to Bothwell Hospital in ambulances, but neither was seriously hurt. Nick Allen, Kansas City, was taken to the hospital in an Ewing ambulance and Leslie Hansen, 1413 South Grand, was taken in a Gillespie ambulance.

Russell Hibbard's D-7 racer turned the half-mile oval in 25.85 seconds for the top time trial clocking. Other top clockings were Junior Hower, Kansas City, 25.96; Bill Utz, Sedalia, 26.24; Jack Belk, Joplin, 26.48; and Ken Taylor, 26.55.

The race results: Trophy Dash—1. Russell Hibbard, Slater; 2. Jack Belk, Joplin; 3. Junior Hower, Kansas City.

Hobby Car Race—1. Wally Calvert, Sedalia; 2. Cecil Laplat, Sedalia; 3. Bill Shelley, Sedalia; 4. Ralph Craig, Sedalia; 5. Harlan Conn, Fulton.

First B Heat—1. Al Bodenhamer, Kansas City; 2. Lloyd Wilhite, Windsor; 3. Byron Robinson, Sweet Springs.

Second B Heat—1. Tom Corbin, Carrollton; 2. Al Baldus, Kansas City; 3. Ervin Schick, Kansas City.

First A Heat—1. John Backland, Kansas City; 2. Jim Bond, Kansas City; 3. Al Blochers, Kansas City.

Second A Heat—1. Bob Ford, Marshall; 2. Jack Hayes, Fulton; 3. Donnie Cooper, Sedalia.

When St. Louis hitters failed to produce Sunday, pitcher Bob Gibson took over and helped the Cardinals to a split in a doubleheader with the Cincinnati Reds in St. Louis.

The Kansas City A's relied on their home run ball and again surprised the New York Yankees, 4-2, in Kansas City.

The Cardinals, who slugged six extra base hits Saturday for a 7-1 victory, were shackled by Cincinnati pitchers Bob Purkey and John Tostouris Sunday.

Purkey blanked them, 6-0, on six hits in the first contest and Tostouris added seven more frames to the whitewash before Gibson ignited an eighth inning rally that produced a 2-1 victory in the nightcap.

Gibson got the sixth hit off Tostouris to open the eighth and Curt Flood collected his third safety to move Gibson to second. A walk and Dick Groat's sacrifice fly gave the Cardinals one run and Ken Boyer's single brought home the decisive tally.

The Reds got to Gibson for a run on three hits in the ninth, but the hard-throwing right-hander, who now is 4-1, retired the last two men for the triumph.

The Reds jumped on Ray Washburn for four runs in the first inning of the opener, nullifying a fine relief effort by Roger Craig, who pitched 7 2-3 innings allowing one earned run.

Wayne Causey struck the big blow for the A's, a three-run homer that followed two walks in the seventh inning. The Yankees led, 2-1, at the time.

John O'Donoghue went seven innings for the victory. John Wyatt blanked the Yankees the final two frames as the A's took the series, two games to one. They lost to Whitey Ford, 9-1, Saturday after Diego Segui pitched them to a victory in the series opener Friday.

The Cardinals travel to Detroit for an exhibition game against the Tigers tonight.

Kansas City will entertain Baltimore in a night contest. Aurelio Monteagudo (0-3) will face the Orioles' rookie sensation, Wally Bunker (5-0).

19 Injured When Car Careens Into Crowd

LOUTH, England (AP)—Nineteen persons were injured Sunday when an automobile spun off the track during a stock car race and plowed into the crowd.

The car went out of control after it was sideswiped and smashed through two wire fences and a barrier of hay bales before tearing into the crowd.

One person was seriously injured and eight others hospitalized. The rest were released after treatment for minor injuries. The driver was not injured.

economy with its basis in the healthy combination of small industry and an agriculture trade center.

"Translated into its simplest terms, Missouri's economic development is responsible for the home in which you and your family live, the clothes you wear, the food you eat, the schools educating your children, the pleasures you and your loved ones enjoy in your leisure hours.

"If Missouri's economic development is sound and ever-increasing, all of these 'close to home' things will improve accordingly. Should Missouri's economic growth be allowed to slacken and decline, your lot in life and that of your family likewise will decline.

"But as your governor, I don't intend to let this happen. In recent years, Missouri has made tremendous strides in industrial and general economic progress—strides which I as lieutenant governor have been able to observe from a close vantage point.

"For a moment, let me recall some of these strides forward.

"Four years ago, Missourians approved a constitutional amendment which now allows our communities to vote revenue or general obligation bonds to finance new and expanding industries. And a number of our towns and cities have taken advantage of these bonds to create new jobs for their residents.

"Then, under the leadership of Gov. John M. Dalton, the state legislature replaced the old Division of Resources and Development with the enlarged and revitalized Division of Commerce and Industrial Development.

"As one of its principal activities, this division has launched the Community Betterment Program in which more than 150 Missouri towns and cities are taking a critical, close look at themselves to determine what improvements in municipal services and other facilities must be undertaken to make themselves attractive to present and potential business and industry.

"Economic dividends are coming from another of the division's programs. Groups of Missouri business and industrial leaders and government officials have been traveling to the East Coast, the West Coast, elsewhere in the nation and even overseas, telling the Missouri story to hundreds of executives and industrialists. These trips already have attracted several new industries to create 1,000 new jobs for Missourians.

"Missouri has plenty to sell industry. We can boast of an excellent labor supply, a good transportation system, a moderate climate, low taxes, plentiful water and inexpensive power, and an unexcelled location in respect to the nation's markets and raw materials.

"Do you realize that the next census just six years hence in 1970 will put the center of U.S. population in Missouri near St. Louis?

"Economic growth creates the demand and need for additional governmental services, which of course, must be financed. I believe that increased economic development, particularly in industry, can be a means of meeting the requirements of local and state governments for more revenues without increasing taxes.

"As our state's economy progresses, the incomes and property valuations on which taxes are based also increase, with the result that the various governmental bodies receive more tax revenues.

"Yes, we have made much progress in recent years to spur our state's economy and increase our industry. However, it is essential that we step up our already-rapid pace to meet the competition offered by Missouri's 49 sister states.

"I have plans for further economic stimulation. Upon my election as governor, I propose to recommend these and other activities as an expansion of Missouri's present industrial and general economic development programs:

"1. As I mentioned earlier, the Community Betterment Program initiated by the Commerce and Industrial Development Division is off to a good start. It should be continued and broadened.

"To work with this program and have other roles, I will advocate the establishment of a State Council on Economic Development. It would be composed of officials from all state agencies and departments which are concerned in any way with the economic betterment of our individual citizens and the state as a whole.

"This Council would include qualified representatives from the state agencies dealing with employment, natural resources, schools, industrial and labor relations, hospitals and public health, transportation, agriculture and so forth.

"Among its activities, the Economic Development Council would assist the Commerce and Industrial Development Division in enlarging and improving the present Community Betterment Program.

"In my tenure as lieutenant governor, I have found that the various departments of our state government contain many men and women who are authorities in their particular fields. But, naturally so, they usually are concerned solely with the operations and duties of their individual departments, and seldom are involved directly and continually in shaping the state's overall economic picture.

"The Economic Development Council which I propose would, at little or no additional expense to the taxpayers, bring together the best minds in our state government for periodic meetings to assess Missouri's economic problems and potentials, and then develop programs to solve these problems and more fully utilize these potentials.

"In the next few weeks, I will discuss more of my plans for this Economic Development Council.

"2. Research is one key to helping our state's present businesses and industries grow, and for Missouri to attract new industries. Our state university and colleges and private institutions have excellent, ever improving research staffs and facilities.

"If I become Missouri's governor, I will work for a program whereby the private industry and commerce of our state can make greater use of our state-supported research facilities. Perhaps, this might first require a committee of representatives from business, industry and the educational institutions which would study how such a program could be developed.

"Particularly with small businesses and plants which cannot afford their own research facilities such as a state-sponsored research program needed. I shall work for the development of such a program.

"3. I believe a section on foreign trade should be established within the present Commerce and Industrial Development Division. The recent Missouri Trade Mission to Europe led by Governor Dalton showed the great promise which our state's industry and business have for selling their products and services in the now prospering overseas markets.

"The section on foreign trade I suggest would follow up on the contacts made on the recent Trade Mission, establish other contacts around the world as well as plan and carry out future trade missions to overseas countries.

"Other states in the nation are tapping foreign markets. Missouri, too, has great possibilities for such trade.

"4. I believe a program is needed to improve Missouri's image as a location for industry. In a recent survey by a national business magazine (Fortune), the presidents of 1,000 major U.S. industrial corporations were asked to state their preferences by regions for locating new factories, warehouses and laboratories.

"Missouri was listed in the West Central region, which the corporation presidents ranked sixth among the nine U.S. regions. While I was pleased to note that the executives ranked Missouri first among the seven states in the West Central region, I think this points up the fact that we must intensify the promotion on the many assets which our state offers industry.

"Therefore, I will advocate a promotional program to educate the industrialists of the nation on the advantages which Missouri presents them.

"5. I propose to lead renewed efforts to obtain additional defense and space-oriented industries for Missouri. The space capsule and aircraft construction operations at McDonald Aircraft in St. Louis and the missile engine production at the Rocketdyne plant near Neosho prove the proficiency of Missourians in assembling the highly - complicated hardware our nation needs to protect itself and for its explorations into space.

"Missouri now has four and a third million residents. Normal growth will increase our population another two and a half million by the start of the 21st Century.

"What I hope and dream for is a vigorous economy which will provide success and security for the Missourians of today and the generations to come."

The speaker, his wife and son, Charles, were introduced by Henry Salveter, chairman of the Bush-for-Governor rally. He al-

Comedy Show Started Well, Ended Slow

NEW YORK (AP) — When "More, More, More, More..." an original comedy started on NBC Sunday night, it seemed for the first few minutes we were going to see one of those mad, gay shows reminiscent of the good old movie days when Robert Montgomery was always a rich playboy or debonair Cary Grant was pursuing Irene Dunne or Katharine Hepburn.

It started with a poor but happy young couple just making out on $6,000 a year, worrying over bills and a leaky coffee pot. Suddenly they have a $500,000 windfall and the husband sets out to really enjoy spending his money.

So far, so good. But the spending device was overdone and got out of hand. The rest of the show was less comedy than a burlesque.

Our hero started buying a Rembrandt "with a little Van Gogh on the side to brighten it up," an apartment house and a pair of English limousines for his girl friend, a baby elephant and every dress in Christian Dior's collection for his wife.

Then his wife got into the act, acquiring a prize fighter, a night club, a bank, one sable and 15 mink coats.

The clincher and big gag was when she asked her husband how many golf clubs made a set. Fourteen, he replied.

Then in a voice like Jane's in the "Easy Aces," she said

"Goody, then I think I'll buy those in Connecticut."

That golf club-buying joke is just a little bit older than Milton Berle and started life as an early Texas millionaire story.

The whole show was a bit of misguided fluff, and very hard to wind up.

Moberly Institution Working So Well

Other States Eye Missouri Prison

By LARRY HALL
MOBERLY, Mo. (AP)—Missouri's new medium security prison south of Moberly is working so well it is becoming a model for other states.

The medium security institution is unique and still in the growth stage.

It opened in January, 1963, but its real beginnings were in the flaming prison riots at the main penitentiary in Jefferson City almost 10 years ago in the fall of 1954.

From those ashes came the idea for a new institution aimed at getting prisoners ready to return to society.

"This institution was projected back in 1955," says Col. James D. Carter, state corrections director. "It has been the work of a lot of people, not any one man."

"We developed the program before we built the buildings. The buildings were built around the program."

"Now we're beginning to get a few results. Things are starting to jell."

Right now the institution has about 500 men. Its capacity with the present two housing units is about 700. Carter says the 1965 Legislature will be asked to authorize the construction of two more housing units to bring the capacity up to the planned 1,400.

Each unit costs about $1.25 million to build. Each has a central control area with four wings radiating outward. Each wing has rooms for 79 men and each man has his own room key.

It's a long step forward from the crowded cell blocks at the main penitentiary but there's nothing plush about it. The rooms are tiny. Each has a bed, a chair and a table top desk. Clothes and personal belongings are stored in a compartment under the desk top.

Each man has his own radio headset and there is a television set in each of the four wings—used only at night. It's time to get up at 5:30 a.m. and lights are out at 10 p.m.

After breakfast, every man has a job, in the shops or elsewhere. Currently 89 attend elementary school classes during the day and 74 attend high school classes at night.

In the last six months, 46 were graduated from grade school.

In fact, the 310-acre tract on the flatland of Randolph County resembles a campus more than a prison. Eighty acres are enclosed by a high wire fence but inside that area the men are allowed to move to their jobs, to the recreational areas or elsewhere on their own, unaccompanied by guards.

There is only one observation post, high atop the power plant, and few guards are in evidence. The guard ratio is one to 15 men, compared with one to nine at the penitentiary.

Yet escapes are at a minimum. In a 12-month period there was only one—last October. And parole violations have run only eight out of 100—a record which Supt. Edward E. Haynes views with pride.

For each month with no escapes, every man gets two extra days of "good time" on his sentence. If a whole year goes by without an escape, each man gets 12 extra days of good time.

Getting men ready for their return to "the outside" is the main goal of the institution, as Haynes sees it.

To that end, vocational training has been emphasized from the start and more of it is planned for the future.

The shops include a modern laundry with a capacity of 100,000 pounds a week. The medium security laundry now handles about 50,000 pounds a week for the University of Missouri, including the medical center there.

In the same building a separate area is being remodeled and wired to accommodate the print shop to be moved from the penitentiary soon.

Another shop trains auto mechanics and one of their pieces of equipment is an engine donated by the Ford Motor Co.

A modern mechanical shop includes $350,000 worth of government surplus machinery, including lathes, drills, presses and other production equipment.

A metal assembly plant is being moved from the penitentiary, although license tag production will remain in Jefferson City.

There is a woodworking shop and other maintenance shops and the power plant generating electricity with Missouri coal.

A two-acre truck garden is in operation now and later Haynes hopes to install livestock farming. He also hopes to get money for a new greenhouse to set up a horticultural program with the help of the University of Missouri.

Right now, Haynes says ruefully, one of his biggest problems is getting grass to grow on the raw soil of the new institution.

But the boys are working at it and they even have the help of Moberly Garden Club members who came out recently to get some roses started.

Both Haynes and Carter report that community acceptance of the institution has been fine.

Townpeople come out to the chapel for Sunday services, civic clubs come to visit, athletic teams and musical groups from the institution entertain in the area.

The men's choir, the Prodigals, is heard now on a network of 27 radio stations. It is the project of the Protestant chaplain, the Rev. Earl C. Grandstaff.

Another small musical group, the Rebels, entertained newsmen on a recent tour of the institution. The four guitars and drum accompanied a sad song, "I Wanta Go Home."

The home atmosphere is encouraged, and the men are allowed to have four visits a month from members of their families. A special visiting area is set aside in the administration building and the men don clean white shirts for the occasion.

Some families stay all day, eating at the snack bar, going to chapel services with their boys and watching the kids play in a nearby playground. An unobtrusive guard stays in the area. Inmates run the snack bar.

One of the things that has attracted attention from other states is the self contained food service building where 500 men can be served at a time. They eat at individual tables, four men to a table, and are served cafeteria style.

The building includes a modern bakery, meat processing and vegetable preparation areas, warehouse space and so on. Stacked in the warehouse are some of the thousands of vegetables from the Renz prison farm near Jefferson City, which provides 90 per cent of the canned goods.

There is also a small modern hospital, staffed with a full time registered nurse and served by Moberly doctors and dentists on a part time basis.

A special pre-release area is not yet in operation but probably will be by fall.

It is one of the many plans for future growth and development.

Meanwhile this new idea in LEADER—The Rev. Dr. Edler G. Hawkins of New York is the new Moderator of the United Presbyterian Church, U.S.A. He is the first Negro to head the Protestant denomination.

Missouri's correctional program seems to be off to a good start.

Washington News Briefs

WASHINGTON (AP)—In the news from Washington:

FALLOUT STANDARDS: Six federal agencies are working to set guidelines on when countermeasures would be necessary to counter radioactive fallout.

The guidelines would be specific amounts of fallout which would be considered high enough for the government to institute such steps as condemnation of food supplies contaminated by radioactive materials.

FLAG DAY: Proclaiming June 14 as Flag Day, President Johnson called on Americans Thursday to rededicate themselves "to the principles that our flag symbolizes—equality, justice and liberty."

AIR POLLUTION: A Senate subcommittee plans public hearings next month on air pollution from auto and truck engines, jet aircraft, rockets and industrial plants.

Announcing the hearings Thursday, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, said representatives from the automobile industry and manufacturers of devices to control automotive exhaust would lead off at the hearings, scheduled to begin June 16.

GETS POST: The National

Aeronautics and Space Administration has hired Breene M. Kerr, 35, son of the late Sen. Robert S. Kerr, D-Okla., as deputy assistant administrator for technology utilization.

Since 1953, Kerr had been with Kerr-McGee Oil Industries, Inc., of Oklahoma City, his father's old firm.

Science Shrinks Piles
New Way Without Surgery
Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain—without surgery.

In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place.

Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!"

The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—discovery of a world-famous research institute.

This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name Preparation H®.

At all drug counters.
